These Kids — Are — Driving Me Crazy!

Why Kids Do The Crazy Things They Do.

Stanislaus County
Early Care & Education Conference

Saturday, August 25, 2018
8 AM - 12:30 PM

Martin G. Peterson Event Center
720 12th Street, Modesto CA 95354

This conference is provided through a partnership between Stanislaus County Office of Education, Child Care Resource and Referral Program, Stanislaus Child Development Local Planning Council, and First 5 Stanislaus.

THE CONFERENCE

Discover tools for more effective and joyful leadership, parenting, and teaching experiences, because let's face it: children can drive you crazy sometimes.

This fun and dynamic workshop will help target developmental stages and focus on building relationships that support children in reaching their potential.

Sometimes these patterns of behavior are influenced by relationships and the environment, but once these behaviors are identified, they become less frustrating.

This conference will help you gain effective tools and skills for encouraging and supporting learning, so you can feel confident about your work.

LAURIE PRUSSO-HATCH

Laurie is a retired Professor of Child Development. Her work focuses on emotional and social development, working with children who exhibit "challenging behaviors," and the effects of trauma on children and families.

Laurie has an extensive education and background in child development and education, which she has used to work with children, adult learners, and parents in a variety of settings. She has been a family childcare provider, a preschool teacher and director.

Her work has been published in professional journals and publications, and she has presented many keynote addresses, workshops, and trainings on emotional health, social development, relationships, and discipline.
